

The introduction of the use of cell phones in closed quarters on the airplane will undoubtedly create problems for passengers and crew. The noise of people talking more in the airplane than they do now can easily turn an irritating situation to a dangerous situation, being that airplane travel is already so stressful these days.